

If you are looking for a family law attorney to fight for your rights and safeguard your children's best interests, you need the assistance of an attorney who has extensive experience fighting for the rights of fathers.

My firm's focus is advocating for fathers and husbands like you. I endeavor to provide aggressive, high quality representation in family law cases of all types, agreed or contested, combined with highly personalized, excellent client service. While I do considerable trial work, I also practice alternative dispute resolution through mediation and collaborative law.

Having served clients across the state and throughout the world for more than thirty years in Texas family law, I provide my clients with knowledgeable, dignified and diligent representation, in cases involving: divorce, post-divorce modifications, child custody disputes, relocation and residence restriction issues, visitation problems, child support, basic and complex property division, interstate jurisdiction, paternity, termination and adoption, prenuptial and marital agreements, and grandparent custody and visitation rights.

I am a divorced father. I know what it takes to go through a family law battle-- personally and professionally.

My fees are reasonable and compare favorably to other lawyers. I do not require as large of retainers as many attorneys, and you are allowed to pay as the case progresses.
